Experiences

- ✓ History & Culture

You start the day leaving the coast behind and heading inland with your private driver towards Tramonti, one of Campania's most fertile valleys. Here, between green hills and volcanic soil, southern Italian food and wine traditions are still very much alive – in family farms, ancient vines, and recipes passed down through generations.

Your first stop is a family-run winery nestled inside the Monti Lattari regional park, on a farm that dates back to the 1700s. You wander among 200-year-old, pre-phylloxera vines while your sommelier shares stories of Tramonti's winemaking heritage and what makes this valley so special. In the cellar, you learn about fermentation, barrel ageing, and how the mineral-rich terrain is expressed in each glass.

Lunch is served at the farmhouse, prepared by the winemaker's family using regional recipes and hyper-local ingredients – vegetables from the garden, house-made pasta, slow-cooked sauces. Each course is paired with wines from the estate, with your sommelier guiding you through every sip so you can savour the different notes and nuances.

In the afternoon, you cross the mountain pass with your driver to reach Ravello, a serene hilltop town suspended between sea and sky. Here, you meet your local guide to explore Villa Cimbrone, strolling through sculpted gardens and arriving at the famed Terrace of Infinity – a balcony seemingly floating above the coastline, with one of the most breathtaking views on the Amalfi Coast. If time allows, you can also visit Villa Rufolo, with its Moorish-inspired architecture, lush gardens, and views that have inspired artists and musicians for centuries.

By the time you return to your accommodation, you've traced a quiet arc from mountain vineyards to cliff-top gardens – a day that captures both the flavours and the soul of the Amalfi Coast's hidden heart.
